Puzzling Aspects of the Federal
Wage-Price Freeze

There are thousands of cases of confusion among private American businesses and workers over the terms of the government's 90-day price-wage freeze.

Among them is the case of American newspaper advertising and subscription rates. On July 30 The Star mailed all advertisers an announcement of a 10-cents-per-column-inch increase in advertising rates to take effect Sept. 1, 1971.

This has been our practice for several years, the rate change of about 9 per cent being based on the degree to which our production costs have increased over the previous 12 months. No matter what the government contends—that the increase was not actually in effect on the date of the price-wage order—we will stand pat on the Sept. 1 rates, rate-card, and new contract terms. The government may sue us, but no advertising will be run where objection is raised to the new rates.

Subscription rates are another matter. They will be increased, but probably not until the end of the initial 90-day "freeze." We had hinted about the subscription hike in this column several times, but had posted no actual notice of an increase, so therefore we feel bound to suspend any hikes until the end of the 90-day "freeze."

However, the government took no action against a $7-a-ton hike in the price of newsprint (paper) last April 1, with an additional $8-a-ton-increase scheduled Nov. 1—a total increase of $15 per ton for 1971.

The fact is that 90 per cent of all newsprint used by U.S. newspapers is manufactured in Canada, and the contract price is set by any figure agreed on by two Canadian and one U.S. paper mills. Therefore the U.S. government can't do much about regulating the price of newsprint.

Nevertheless, we have had a 10 per cent increase—accomplished or promised—in the price of newsprint in 1971, and a total increase of around 20 per cent since the last time we changed subscription rates.

This is a memorandum to subscribers: After the 90-day "freeze" we will probably increase the weekly rate on carrier-delivered subscriptions from present 40 to 45c abolish the city annual rate for carrier-delivery; and increase the annual RFD mail rate from present $10 to $11.

The above schedule is tentative, of course, and at least 90 days away.

But the advertising rate increase stands pat, taking effect Sept. 1 as announced several weeks before the government issued its price-wage freeze order.

Shots Reveal Many Horses Not Assessed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The vaccination of horses in Arkansas against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis appears to have unearthed a problem in the county assessors' offices.

Preliminary figures show that more horses were inoculated against VEE than have been declared by their owners for personal property assessment purposes.

For example, Emil Larson, Benton County assessor, said the county shows a total of 1,557 horses declared by their owners. However, he said at the last count about 3,500 horses had been vaccinated in his county.

Larson said that at the assessed value of $20 per horse, this would amount to a loss of about $300-400 in Benton County.

No Hikes for Some State Teachers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Education Commissioner Arch Ford said Wednesday night that as a result of President Nixon's wage-price controls, only school teachers whose contract periods began before Aug. 15 would receive raises this fall.

The president's Cost of Living Council ruled that regardless of when teachers might have signed contracts for the new school year, salary increases would not be granted unless the contract period had begun before the president's order on Aug. 15.

Ford said the order would freeze the wages of about 15,000 of the state's 21,000 school teachers and administrators.

He said the only exceptions would be a number of administrators, coaches, counselors and vocational teachers.

Hubert Blanchard, associate director of the Arkansas Education Association, said the ruling would probably create a serious moral problem in many school districts.

"This will result from the fact that some members of a faculty will get their promised increases while others will not," Blanchard said.

He said that he assumed when the freeze ends Nov. 15, school districts would adjust monthly checks so teachers would still realize their promised annual raise.

Recalls Experiences of Great Expectations That Wound Up Duds

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Have you ever experienced a situation that started out famously and then ended, soon or late, in a great big flop?

If you can look back on your existence—with some sense of wry but tolerant humor—and recall experiences that started with great expectations but wound up sudden duds—well, these occasions may be familiar to you:

Going on a blind date and being told during the course of the evening that she didn't think you were so much to look at either.

Japan Under Pressure, Court Asked to Delay Busing

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo newspapers reported today that the Japanese government is weakening under pressure for an upward revaluation of the yen and is inclined to let it float.

Despite official denials that revaluation of the yen is imminent, the papers said informed sources told them the Japanese currency must eventually be adjusted upward. The government has not wanted to increase the value of the yen because of the deflationary effect on the already sluggish economy.

The Sankei Shimbun said the government was waiting to see what action the European Common Market countries would take before making a decision. Japan's biggest newspaper,

U.S. Naval Guns Join in Action

By GEORGE ESPEY

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Fleet has fired its big guns

the southern half of the demilitarized zone, joining America's B52 bombers in the campaign to slow a North Vietnamese offensive that rolled into its second week today.

The announcement of the bombardment today was the U.S. Command's first public acknowledgment that American warships are shelling North Vietnamese positions in the southern half of the six-mile-wide buffer zone between the two Vietnams.

The naval task force in the Tonkin Gulf is led by the guided missile destroyer Berkeley, which has been bombarding enemy rocket and mortar positions in the southern DMZ for the past six days, it was learned.

The Berkeley on Wednesday attacked batteries that were firing into South Vietnam, field reports said, and silenced several of them. The ship's shells also set off fires and explosions.

The South Vietnamese Command reported that 142 North Vietnamese and 22 government troops were killed just outside Camp Carroll in a 12-hour battle that ended at dawn Wednesday. Another 51 South Vietnamese were wounded.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong today were observing the 26th anniversary of August Revolutionary Day, Ho Chi Minh's first uprising against French rule after the Japanese surrender in 1945. The South Vietnamese government has charged that Hanoi planned attacks to mark that anniversary as well as North Vietnam's national day on Sept. 2.

The battle 2½ miles southwest of Camp Carroll broke out Tuesday afternoon when a battalion of 400 South Vietnamese infantrymen ran into a North Vietnamese force of about the same size armed with flame throwers and heavy weapons.

The South Vietnamese said they collected two flame throwers, nine machine guns, seven rocket grenade launchers and 18 AK47 assault rifles after the battle.

Millions Hit by Freeze Including Military and Many Walk Picket Lines

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has asked the Supreme Court to delay the massive busing of about 15,000 school children in Corpus Christi, Tex.

In a memorandum approved by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, the department said there is serious question that Mexican-American children are victims of segregation. The federal judge who ordered the busing had found school officials discriminating against both Mexican-Americans and blacks.

The memorandum, presented late Wednesday to Justice Hugo L. Black, is the first statement filed by the department with the court since President Nixon disavowed a busing plan the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had approved for Austin, Tex., and reiterated his personal aversion to extensive busing.

Earlier this week the Corpus Christi school officials told Black they have neither the money nor the buses to comply with the order by Judge Woodrow Seals. The plan is scheduled to start with opening of the new term next Wednesday.

HEW had proposed widespread busing in Corpus Christi after Seals concluded the schools were segregated. Only about five per cent of the 46,000 pupils are black. About half the remainder are Mexican-Americans and the other half Anglo. Seals' busing order was designed to mix up all three ethnic groups.

Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and David L. Norman, the assistant attorney general in charge of civil rights, presented the government's position in the Supreme Court. It was understood the White House was not consulted.

"The validity of the district court's determination of de jure segregation is itself in serious question," the department said.

Partly Cloudy and Warm Is Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Partly cloudy skies with warm temperatures are forecast for Arkansas through Friday, but no relief is in sight for the haze and smoke conditions that have resulted in low visibility for the last several days.

A large high-pressure area covering the eastern half of the nation is responsible for keeping the pollutants near the ground. A cold front extending from Minnesota southwestward to New Mexico is pushing slowly southeastward. However, chances are slim for the front to reach Arkansas and offer relief from the smoke and haze.

Highs through Friday are expected to be in the upper 80s and low 90s, with early morning lows in the upper 60s and low 70s.

Fletcher said state law provided that if a board member missed two consecutive meetings he had to have the governor's approval in order to continue serving and that missing three consecutive meetings was automatically the end of a board member's service.

Tucker said there are supposed to be five members on the board, but that one position has been vacant for three or four months. He said all of the other members, except himself, had at some time during the past couple of years missed three meetings consecutively.

Tucker said the full board had met a couple of times this year but that there also had been times when only he showed up.

Connally Says Meany Out of Touch

By NEIL GILBRIDGE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally said today AFL-CIO President George Meany's opposition to the 90-day wage-price freeze shows "he's basically lost touch with what is meaningful to the American workman."

The verbal jab repeated an administration criticism that already had Meany reportedly fuming. It came less than two hours before a White House delegation headed for AFL-CIO headquarters to meet labor leaders virtually united in opposition to the wage-price freeze, viewed by some as their gravest crisis in 20 years.

Connally, appearing on NBC's Today show, said it was "sheer nonsense" and "rank demagoguery" to argue, as Meany and others have, that President Nixon's tax-cut requests favor business at the expense of the workingman.

Connally claimed for Nixon's new economic program the support of America's rank-and-file workers, and said he thought organized labor leaders would fall in line with their members.

"I think they are going to cooperate," Connally said, "notwithstanding Mr. Meany's statements. I think frankly that

Connally, when asked on NBC's Today television show if the Pentagon decision was right, said:

"No. The military are not going to be able to get a raise," Connally said. "This (the Pentagon decision) is a mistake."

"They're going to be treated like anybody else," Connally said. He heads the Cost of Living Council Nixon set up to interpret the wage-price freeze.

After the Pentagon announced its decision Wednesday, Deputy Secretary of Defense David M. Packard underlining confusion within the government—had said the department would abide by the presidential order but, without Cost of Living Council guidelines to the contrary, would follow the plan outlined by a Pentagon spokesman.

Meanwhile, high-level conferences were called today in Washington and foreign capitals to wrestle with details and consequences of the U.S. economic bombshell.

The AFL-CIO's executive council, representing 13.6 million workers, was invited to the White House to throw expected hostile questions to three presidential advisers: George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget; Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson and J. Curtis Counts, director of the Federal Mediation Service.

In Ottawa, Canada's Cabinet designated Finance Minister E. J. Benson and Trade Minister Jean Lupin to meet in Washington with Treasury Secretary John B. Connally in an attempt to get an exemption from the new 10-per-cent duty surcharge.

In Brussels, Common Market ministers expected to receive contrasting plans by France and Germany on how to deal with U.S. dollars divorced from gold.

Annual pictures, grades 9-12, are now being made at Clyde Davis Photography for those who wish to choose from proofs. Pictures for ID cards and records will be made at school but no proofs will be furnished. Seniors are asked to please wear coats and ties.

Allies Refuse to Meet Price Demand

BERLIN (AP) — The Big Four meeting in Berlin ended early today without an agreement but another session is scheduled Monday. Apparently the Allies still refused to meet the Soviet Union's price for a guarantee of access to isolated West Berlin, the primary Western objective.

"I do not know when we will get an agreement," said U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Rush after the marathon session which began Wednesday morning. "We will have to wait and see."

In the 17 months of negotiations, the U.S., British, French and Soviet envoys never met so far into the night. The meeting was the sixth in nine days, and Rush said it was so long because they reviewed the entire range of issues.

Although the talks are secret, it is known that the West is asking the Soviet Union to guarantee unimpeded access between Berlin and West Germany, which are separated by more than 100 miles of Communist East German territory.

Since the Berlin blockade of 1948-49, the Russians have refused to give such a guarantee. As a result, the East Germans have frequently slowed or stopped traffic to and from West Berlin.

Moscow's price for a guarantee is said to involve a drastic reduction in political ties between West Berlin and West Germany and location of a Soviet consulate in West Berlin.

Rush said that, while he was not "satisfied," he was "pleased" with progress so far.

State Hopes for U.S. Aid to Relieve Med Center Financially

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State officials are hopeful of providing financial relief to the University of Arkansas Medical Center by obtaining more federal help in paying the cost of treating poor patients at the center's teaching hospital.

Dr. Roger Bost, director of the state Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services, said the objective was maximum utilization of Medicaid in the payment of medical costs of indigents.

The effect would be a reduction in the amount of state funds needed to pay for the care of the poor and an increase in the level of federal participation, thereby freeing state dollars for other uses at the Medical Center and elsewhere.

The federal government makes Medicaid available on an 80-20 matching basis, with the federal government putting up 80 per cent of the money.

Bost and other state officials, at Gov. Dale Bumpers' request, are working on a plan of accomplishing their objective, although Bost said he could not calculate at this time how much relief the proposal would provide.

The cost of providing care at the Medical Center hospital accounts for a large chunk of the institution's appropriation — about $3.2 million last year in a budget of $7.9 million in state funds.

Dr. James L. Dennis, the center's chief administrator, says the facility needs a minimum of $2 million more over the biennium and up to $2.6 million, if it is to grant salary increases to nonprofessional employees who are threatening a walkout and develop family and rural practices programs Bumpers pushed through the 1971 legislature.

The possibility has been raised of helping the center by using part of the $13.8 million in balances that had accumulated in the funds of various state agencies by the end of the last fiscal year.

Such action would require a special session of the General Assembly, since most of the money has been earmarked for the legislature for construction. The legislature also set aside $1.8 million of the funds to pay the debts and ease the financial problems of Arkansas AM&N College.

"I don't know at this point how significant our efforts are going to be in helping the Medical Center," Bost said of the Medicaid plan. "But undoubtedly there is additional Medicaid support that can be provided and we want to take maximum advantage of it."

The Medical Center already is a Medicaid participant—receiving about $430,000 in Medicaid payments last year—but Bost and Dennis say the facility is not collecting on all patients who are eligible for the program because of failure to identify all eligibles. Bost said officials wanted to streamline identification procedures.

Dennis said about 90 per cent of the hospital's patients paid only a portion of their medical costs or none at all, and the tab for the rest must be picked up by the state or federal government. A number of these patients, he said, were indigents who were not certified for the Medicaid program because of the limitations of Arkansas' Medicaid plan.

"Arkansas is spending its own scarce dollars to pay for the care of medically indigent people, at least some of whom are undoubtedly eligible for Medicaid," Bost said. "We want to get these people identified and use Medicaid rather than our own scarce state dollars."

He said state officials also were revising "the procedures and policies to take in our relations with the Medical Center," apparently with a view toward extending Medicaid eligibility to some patients who are not now qualified.

Bost said Arkansas had the most minimum Medicaid plan it could possibly have and still be in the program and "we're trying to correct all the technical problems in our present plan so that we can extend it to its fullest."

Bumpers has talked of the possibility of using some of the $13.8 million in balances to help the Medical Center, but has expressed some reservations about it.

A. No. All prices, unless specifically exempted, are frozen according to terms of the order.

A. Yes. These are considered transaction prices since commitments have been made.

Q. Are stock and bond prices included in the freeze?

Q. Does the freeze on prices prevent lowering of prices?

A. No. On the contrary, it is hoped that this will occur.

WAGES

Q. Are deferred wage or salary increases which have been negotiated to take effect in the future permitted by the freeze?

Asahi, commented: "Japan will surely isolate itself if it persists in refusing to revalue the yen."

The Tokyo foreign exchange market remained open, and the Bank of Japan continued to buy dollars to maintain the dollar at 360 yen. But the national bank, in an attempt to check sales, announced a ban on fresh borrowing of dollars by Japanese banks from foreign banks.

Four leading commercial banks temporarily suspended spot transactions of dollars with customers. However, they said interbank transactions were not affected.

Tadashi Sasaki, governor of the Bank of Japan, announced the bank would continue to purchase dollars and that Tokyo's foreign exchange market would remain open. The dollar sold actively in early trading. Bank sources said an estimated $600 million were sold with the Bank of Japan buying most of them.

Prices on the Tokyo stock market plunged for the fourth consecutive day. The decline was aided by a rumor that the stock exchange would be closed because of the current heavy selling, but officials denied the report.

The statements pointed up an increasingly widening rift between the administration and labor. One AFL-CIO source said of Nixon's freeze, "It's the most serious thing for us since the question first came up in World War II on how controls could legally be clamped on."

George Shultz, a top Nixon economic adviser, and Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson were dispatched by Nixon to field the protests and questions of union chiefs at a special meeting of the AFL-CIO's 35-man executive council.

Meanwhile, thousands of striking longshoremen, telephone workers teamsters, construction workers and others continued their walkouts despite Nixon's back-to-work request and federal hints of stiff fines if they don't voluntarily return to their jobs during the 90-day freeze.

May Force Interschool Athletics

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John W. Walker of Little Rock, a leading civil rights lawyer, said Wednesday that he was considering filing a suit that could force the public schools to establish interschool athletic competition for girls.

Walker said the theory behind the proposed suit is that athletics is an integral part of a school system's educational program and that girls should not be deprived of the athletic-educational opportunity.

He said he was contemplating filing the suit next month in federal court.

Walker said the proposed suit could lead to integration of athletic teams so that girls could compete alongside boys under their school colors, establishment of separate organized athletic competition for girls or an elimination of boys' athletics.

Basketball is the only sport that girls play on a major basis in Arkansas and this competition is restricted mostly to smaller schools. There is a limited amount of girls' interschool competition in swimming, golf, tennis, bowling and volleyball.

Most junior and senior high schools offer intramural athletics in physical education classes.

Walker said his proposed suit would be against the Little Rock and North Little Rock districts and perhaps the Pulaski County system, but that it would seek class action that could affect other districts as well.

M. Thomas, state veterinarian, asking for a list of the owners and their horses vaccinated in his county.

Thomas refused.

Larson said Thomas told him in a letter, in effect, a man would be testifying against himself.

The assessor said he knew that probably some horses had not been declared, but he was surprised at the number.

"Whenever anything is done voluntarily" such as assessing, Larson said, this type of thing is bound to happen.

Dr. Robert Rice of the Animal Health Division of the United States Department of Agriculture said that the department is not allowed to release any information for tax purposes.

He said a similar incident had occurred several years ago when cattle were being vaccinated against a disease.

Rice said that an estimated 119,000 horses had been vaccinated and the inoculation program is still not complete.

The totals per county of horses vaccinated will probably be released within a month, Rice said, but no other information.

Rice told a newsman inquiring into the figures: "I think you are opening up a bees' nest."

Among those getting the final figures will be the state Assessment Coordination Division.

A spokesman in the attorney general's office suggested that a county assessor request an opinion on the matter of whether other information can be released.

Serve Gelatin Salads From Home Freezer

HOPE, ARK.—Serve gelatin salads from your home freezer. Dolores McBride, Extension home economist, offers a method homemakers may use in freezing their favorite gelatin salad without the salad getting watery after thawing—use about one-fourth less liquid than is called for in the usual congealed salad recipes.

The home economist suggests that frozen salads which freeze well have cream cheese, cottage cheese, or whipped cream as a base. Mayonnaise and salad dressing tend to separate in freezing, but they work better if mixed with such foods as cream cheese or whipped cream.

Do not freeze raw grapes or raw apples because they become "flabby."

Few vegetable salads are suitable for freezing and egg salads are not satisfactory because the whites become tough in freezing.

Salads may be frozen in blocks and wrapped in moisture-vapor proof material and cut into serving size pieces when removed from the freezer. Homemakers may freeze the salad in ice cubes or individual molds. In packaging, put two pieces of paper between each layer to prevent sticking.

To serve the frozen salad, serve frozen or allow to mellow for about an hour in the refrigerator.

In the morning sow your seed, and at evening withhold not your hand; for you do not know which will prosper, this or that, or whether both alike will be good.—Ecclesiastes 11:6.

Mrs. Anthony

Schools as a classroom teacher and speech therapist from 1967-69. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational sorority, and president of Chi Omega Alumnae.

Mrs. Anthony is a member of the Board of Trustees at Southern State College. She is past president of the Heart Fund Drive in Union County, past welfare chairman of the Hugh Goodwin School Parent-Teacher Association and ex-officio member of the board of the Murphy - Beachamp Youth Home.

She has been on the platform committee and executive committee of the State Democratic Party and the Union County Quorum Court.

Mrs. Anthony is a member of the Fine Arts Auxiliary and the Robert Rosamond Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She has been a worker for the South Arkansas Symphony and for the Junior Charity League.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program, now in its seventh year, was conceived by the leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. The program recognizes young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions, and country.

Each year over 6,000 young women are nominated as Outstanding Young Women of America by leading women's organizations, college alumni associations and churches across the country. These women are now in competition for their states' Outstanding Young Women of the Year Award. This fall, fifty of the young women, one from each state, will be named as their states' Outstanding Young Woman of the Year.

Blomberg Hits Double in Yankee Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Once upon a time, the New York Yankees had a left-hander hitting outfielder with a world of talent. They scrupulously protected the young man and one day he grew up to be Bobby Murcer, bonafide star.

Shortly after Murcer won his spurs as a full time player, the Yankees promoted another promising left-handed hitting outfielder. They're feeding him the same diet of right-handers only and one of these days, Ron Blomberg might grow up to be another Bobby Murcer.

Blomberg ripped a two-run double Wednesday night that gave the Yankees a 3-1 victory over Kansas City and lifted his batting average to .347 in 41 games since being brought up from Syracuse of the International League.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, Washington walloped Oakland 10-3, Chicago trimmed Detroit 4-2, Baltimore tripped Milwaukee 6-4, Boston edged California 4-3 and Minnesota tripped Cleveland 4-2.

In the National League, Pittsburgh edged Houston 3-2, Chicago rapped Atlanta 7-2, Cincinnati blanked St. Louis 5-0, San Francisco shut out Philadelphia 7-0, Montreal topped San Diego 4-3 and New York ripped Los Angeles 3-2 in 10 innings.

Blomberg doesn't shy away from comparisons with Murcer, the AL's second best hitter at .328, who is tied for second in runs batted in with 75 and tied for third in homers with 22.

"When I came up here," Blomberg said, "I went to Murcer and he said he had adopted the philosophy to hit the ball where it's pitched, so I copied him."

The young slugger has driven in 19 runs and scored 16 in his brief shot so far and the plans are to limit his action to right-hand pitching only for the remainder of the year. Then the Yankees will turn him loose against lefties in the winter instructional league and hope to make him a fulltime man next season.

Blomberg's game-winning hit rewarded Mel Stottlemyre's four-hit pitching and gave the Yankees' veteran right-hander his 12th victory of the season.

Stottlemyre struck out six and drove in New York's first run with a third inning single.

Washington exploded for seven runs—the Senators' biggest inning of the season—to break a tie in the eighth inning and whip Oakland.

Rookie Pete Broberg pitched a five-hitter and Don Mincher drove in three runs with a single and a homer for Washington. The Senators bunched six hits including a double and triple by Dave Nelson for their eighth inning uprising.

Bill Melton ripped a two-run homer and Wilbur Wood won his 16th game of the season with a six-hitter as Chicago clipped Detroit.

Melton's homer was his 26th of the season and capped a three run White Sox rally in the sixth inning. The victory was Ron Arceneaux or Larry Caldwell's fifth straight, three of them coming against the slumping Tigers.

Ellie Hendricks and Dave Johnson drove in two runs apiece as Baltimore exploded for six runs in the sixth inning to beat Milwaukee. Hendricks delivered a bases-loaded single for the first two runs and Johnson drove in a pair with a double.

Mike Cuellar became the Orioles' third 15-game winner, scattering eight hits including a two-run homer by Andy Kosco.

The Red Sox were held hitless for six innings by Clyde Wright but busted loose for three runs in the seventh on Phil Gagliano's bases-loaded double and Luis Aparicio's pinch single to beat the Angels.

Reggie Smith's leadoff single in the seventh broke Wright's spell and the Sox loaded the bases on an error and George Scott's bunt single before Gagliano, playing left field in place of slumping Carl Yastrzemski, delivered his double, tying the score. Then Aparicio singled the winning run across.

The Minnesota-Cleveland game was delayed by two hours, nine minutes by a first inning rain storm. When play was resumed, three Twins' pitchers Steve Luebber, Ray Corbin and Jim Strickland, combined for a seven-hitter to beat the Indians. Tony Oliva homered for Minnesota.

Season for New Start by Rice Owls

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — This is the season of the new beginning for football at Rice University—the year Bill Peterson tries to bring football prestige up to the level of academics.

It's going to take a lot of homework.

The Owls haven't had a winning season since 1963. They finished 5-5 last season by winning the last three games. But the streak may be short. The Owls open Sept. 11 against Houston, followed by Southern Cal, Tulane and LSU.

The Owls are dangerously thin in experience and size along both offensive and defensive lines. There are quality performers on defense, especially the linebacking corps.

Peterson believes he has a good group of backs, but says the rest of his offense is untried, including quarterback, where nine candidates campaigned for the job during spring training.

Bruce Gadd, a junior from Richardson, ended spring drills as the starting quarterback but he doesn't have the job sewed as fall drills begin.

He'll get competition from last year's starter Phillip Wood, who spent part of spring training trying out as a defensive back.

"They're both real fine boys," said quarterback coach Tobin Rote, who quarterbacked Rice to a Southwest Conference championship in 1949. "We don't know right now if Bruce or Wood will start."

"They haven't had much experience as drop back passers. Wood is taller and is considerably faster than Gadd. But I think Bruce has good qualities as far as leadership and intelligence is concerned."

The way Rote sees it, the Owls will come out throwing in the 1971 season.

"I think we'll put the ball in the air," Rote said. "We don't have the type of club that is going to run over anyone. But we've got good speed in our receivers and I think Gadd and Wood can handle the job."

Peterson's hopes for a ground attack will lie mostly versatile Stahle Vincent, a senior who played quarterback as a sophomore and tailback last year. Vincent will start at halfback and junior Mike Phillips of Wichita Falls at fullback.

The rest of the Owls' offensive lineup includes: Ron Waedeman and Sam Johnson at tackles, Bart Goforth and Lee Carlton at guards and either Wright Moody or Tommy Godard at center. Gary Butler, a 6-foot-4, 240-pounder from Conroe is the tight end with sophomore find Edwin Collins at split end and Ron Arceneaux or Larry Caldwell as the flanker.

The Owls could be tough defensively if they find a good combination among the front four. The stars are in the secondary.

Larry Walling and Pat Kelly will be at ends and Ed Erwin and Larry Medford at tackles on defense for the Owls. Both Medford and Kelly are sophomores. Erwin is a senior.

A definite plus for the Owls is the return of Rodrigo Barnes to linebacking duties after a year of scholastic ineligibility. Barnes was the SWC's defensive sophomore of the year in 1969. He is joined by John Kelly and Mike McCollum with Chris Hale as the rover.

Bill Latourette and Mike Tyler are the cornerbacks and Steve Ogletree is at safety.

When Peterson took over at the end of last season, he said one of his objectives was to "bring Rice's football prestige up to its academic levels."

The Owls started their cram course Wednesday with two-day fall practices.

Young Redleg Outhurls Bob Gibson

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Two years ago Don Gullett was in high school. Now he's at the head of the class in the major leagues, giving pitching lessons to fellows like Bob Gibson. "It's some satisfaction beating Gibson," said Gullett, the Cincinnati Reds' 20-year-old phenom who outdueled the St. Louis Cardinals ace 5-0 Wednesday night.

Gullett's marks continue to be all the more impressive, since he wasn't even in professional baseball in 1969 and was used sparingly in relief in 1970. The hard-throwing southpaw has a fine 14-4 won-lost record, tops on the Cincinnati staff and one of the best winning percentages in baseball. And in his last start against the Chicago Cubs, he reached the height of his young career with a one-hit performance in eight innings.

The Pirates trimmed the Houston Astros 3-2; the Cubs walloped the Atlanta Braves 7-2; the New York Mets turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in 10 innings; the Montreal Expos whipped the San Diego Padres 4-3 and the San Francisco Giants hammered the Philadelphia Phillies 7-0 in the other National League games. American League scores: Boston 4, California 3; New York 3, Kansas City 1; Minnesota 4, Cleveland 2; Baltimore 6, Milwaukee 4; Chicago 4, Detroit 2 and Washington 10, Oakland 3.

A funny thing happened to Gullett on the way to his shut-out. He got fined a dollar for failing to sacrifice a runner in the sixth inning.

"How about that," exclaimed Gullett, "you beat Gibson and you have to pay for it."

Actually, Gullett's misfired sacrifice didn't hurt too much. He got all the offensive help he needed from Bernie Carbo's home run in the third inning and a four-run rally in the fifth capped by George Foster's two-run triple.

Gullett's record has overtones of a possible 20-game victory season. But the youngster isn't thinking about it, he says.

Milt May, who hit a home run to give Pittsburgh a temporary 4-0 lead in the fourth inning, delivered a tie-breaking single with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth.

Johnny Callison smashed a grand slam home run in the eighth inning to key a five-run explosion for Chicago and keep the Cubs within 5 1/2 games of the front-running Pirates in the National League East.

The blast made a winner of Milt Pappas, making his first appearance against his former Atlanta mates since being sold to Chicago last year.

Ken Singleton drove home the winning run with a single in the 10th inning, pacing the New York triumph over sliding Los Angeles, which dropped 7 1/2 games behind San Francisco's West leaders. Singleton's game-winning followed a double by Tommie Agee.

Pinch-hitter Coco Laboy brought Montreal from behind with a two-run single in the seventh inning.

A single by John Bateman, a walk to Ron Fairly and a sacrifice bunt by Ron Brand set up Laboy's single that rubbed out a 3-2 deficit and helped Carl Morton curb a personal, four-game losing streak.

Southpaw John Cumberland pitched a five-hitter and batterymate Dick Dietz ripped a homer, carrying hot San Francisco over Philadelphia. It was the Giants' fifth straight victory.

Trevino to Play at Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Lee Trevino, winner of the U.S. British and Canadian Open championships, will play in the Greater Hartford Open on Labor Day weekend, the tournament's cochairmen said Wednesday.

Trevino, professional golf's leading money winner this year, had been hospitalized for an appendectomy and his participation in the tourney was in question.

But Ray Gorynski and Hugh Barr, cochairmen of the tournament, said they had spoken to Trevino, who told them his recovery from the operation had been good and he would play in the GHO.

Americans Treated Fine in Cuba

EDITORS NOTE: Byron Dale Shewman, 24, a high school teacher at Mar Vista, a suburb of San Diego, is a member of the U.S. volleyball team participating in zone qualifying in Havana for the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich.

HAVANA (AP) — Americans in Cuba may be an oddity these days, but the visit has been a great experience so far for everyone on the team.

The closest thing to an "incident" happened Tuesday night when one of the players was walking down a street without his shirt on. We didn't know it, but there is a law here against appearing in public without a shirt on.

Some people saw our man and told him about the law. He put his shirt on and that was that. No police, no fuss, no nothing.

The team is staying at the old Havana Hilton. It looks run down on the outside and it really isn't fancy inside, but it is clean. It is like a lot of other things in the country—no big changes in years.

In my room, there still is a lampshade with "Hotel Havana Hilton" on it in large letters. The real name now is Hilton Libre.

There haven't been any restrictions at all on the members of our team. We are free to come and go as we please. They don't even send an interpreter with us.

The weather has been great and we have toured some of Havana. We also went to the beach. The food is kind of bland, but the people are great—very friendly.

We have had no problems getting into conversations with members of the Cuban team or anyone else. A couple of us talked for a long time Tuesday night with two members of the Cuban women's team. They didn't seem guarded in what they said and the discussion was fun.

The food we are getting is basically fish and rice, not too tasty but there is plenty of it. We have had beef once and it was a pretty good steak.

Ginger ale is the drink we have been getting with our meals. If you want something stronger, it will be beer from Europe.

Havana abounds with art shops. Much of the art is violent and anti-capitalistic in subject matter. Some of it is kind of scary.

We have been taking pictures and there apparently isn't any restriction on what we shoot. The city of Havana itself is very strange to us. It seems that the architecture is all pre-revolution and the buildings haven't been improved since 1959. Most of the buildings need paint and they look really run down.

But Havana is a clean city. The streets are clean.

The Cubans who speak English seem really happy. Some of those we talked with told us they were getting more money—supposedly more money to spend—and no longer are getting just the bare minimum.

The kids have shoes and everyone seems to be pretty well dressed. They stand in line at many restaurants now. We were told not many people were eating at restaurants until recently.

One of the interesting things is the transportation. You don't see any cars newer than 1959 models, but the buses we ride in are new. We weren't able to

Casper Just Wants to Avoid Cut

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I'm not worrying about defending the championship. I feel fortunate to make the cut every week what with shooting 73s and 74s," said Billy Casper.

The 40-year-old Casper was among 147 golfers who started the first round today in Industrial Valley Bank's $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Casper won the $30,000 first prize last year with a 72-hole total of 14-under-par 274 over the Whitmarsh Valley County Club course.

Casper is locked in the long-stump of his 16-year professional golf career. He started 1971 strong, finishing second in three of the first seven tournaments and earning $60,000. In the last nine he has picked up a little over $15,000 and suffered the ignominy of missing the cut in the U.S. Open.

The 5-foot-11 Casper hasn't won a tournament this year, a sad state for a guy who has been a multiple winner on the tour for eight consecutive years. In 1970 he won four times.

In the spring, Casper had an excuse. He suffered hip and back trouble for about four or five weeks. Since the middle of May, however, he has been healthy. What then is wrong with one of the game's greats?

"I don't know what the trouble is," Casper said Wednesday before going out for a practice round on the 6,708-yard par-72 Whitmarsh course. "Periodically you hit things like this. It's all part of growth," he observed. "But this is the longest slump I've been in."

Casper said he worked very hard on his game for several months prior to the U.S. Open in June. "I didn't improve. I didn't even make the cut. I kept playing, hoping I would play myself out of it. I didn't. Then I rested. That didn't help. I can't put my finger on what's wrong."

Casper feels his record of winning at least one tournament every year since 1956 is in jeopardy if he doesn't snap out of the slump soon. Only five of this year's top 10

Casper Just Wants to Avoid Cut

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I'm not worrying about defending the championship. I feel fortunate to make the cut every week what with shooting 73s and 74s," said Billy Casper.

The 40-year-old Casper was among 147 golfers who started the first round today in Industrial Valley Bank's $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Casper won the $30,000 first prize last year with a 72-hole total of 14-under-par 274 over the Whitmarsh Valley County Club course.

Casper is locked in the long-stump of his 16-year professional golf career. He started 1971 strong, finishing second in three of the first seven tournaments and earning $60,000. In the last nine he has picked up a little over $15,000 and suffered the ignominy of missing the cut in the U.S. Open.

The 5-foot-11 Casper hasn't won a tournament this year, a sad state for a guy who has been a multiple winner on the tour for eight consecutive years. In 1970 he won four times.

In the spring, Casper had an excuse. He suffered hip and back trouble for about four or five weeks. Since the middle of May, however, he has been healthy. What then is wrong with one of the game's greats?

"I don't know what the trouble is," Casper said Wednesday before going out for a practice round on the 6,708-yard par-72 Whitmarsh course. "Periodically you hit things like this. It's all part of growth," he observed. "But this is the longest slump I've been in."

Casper said he worked very hard on his game for several months prior to the U.S. Open in June. "I didn't improve. I didn't even make the cut. I kept playing, hoping I would play myself out of it. I didn't. Then I rested. That didn't help. I can't put my finger on what's wrong."

Casper feels his record of winning at least one tournament every year since 1956 is in jeopardy if he doesn't snap out of the slump soon. Only five of this year's top 10

Villanova Denied 2nd Place by NCAA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Villanova University, cited for using Howard Porter while ineligible, has been formally denied second place in the 1971 National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament.

The school must return its trophy and cannot receive $72,347, its share in receipts from the national tournament, Charles Neinas, NCAA assistant executive director, said Wednesday.

Neinas said the NCAA Executive Committee meeting here this week was consulting legal counsel on the possibility of further action. He would not say against whom the action may be directed.

"We feel Villanova did as good a job as they could to investigate when the evidence came to light," he said.

The Porter case "highlights the problem of colleges having their season disrupted by pro contracts."

Neinas said Porter violated NCAA eligibility rules when he signed a professional contract in December 1970, before the end of the season and the post-season tournament.

He said the request for Villanova's share of the receipts was purely formal because the university admitted on June 16 that it was not entitled to the money and had not received it. The money will be used to promote NCAA football activities, Neinas said.

McLaren Team Making Bores of Themselves

By BLOYS BRITT

AP Auto Racing Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — There are those who say the Team McLaren racers of Pete Revson and Denis Hulme are making bores of themselves in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup road racing series.

The British-built McLarens have won the series four years in a row and have taken three of the four races this year. Sometime before the current campaign is over, they should pass the $1 million mark in prize money.

"The McLaren success has been due to a great many things," says Gary Knutson, an engineer for Reynolds Metal Co. and the team's engine expert. "These include the inspiration of the late Bruce McLaren, excellent design, attention to detail, and a dedication to steady improvement even of seemingly unbeatable cars."

Like the New York Yankees, who in their great days always managed to come up with another big bat or a hot pitcher, the McLaren bunch each year seems to find something extra.

This year's extra appears to be racing's only all-aluminum engine block, which made one appearance last year and has had two outings this year. It won all three starts.

Knutson says some of the advantages of the new block are easily explained, but some others can only be theorized for the time being.

"A conventional racing engine, such as those that power other Can-Am cars, have relatively soft cast iron sleeves forming the cylinder walls and taking the punishment from the pistons and rings.

"The all-aluminum block is composed entirely of new aluminum alloy, developed by Reynolds and called 390, which requires no iron sleeves. Thus, we save at least 15 pounds in engine weight without the use of the iron sleeves, and we can make our bores larger for greater horsepower," Knutson said.

In his second victory of the season two weeks ago at Watkins Glen, N.Y., Revson used a brand new 510-cubic inch aluminum block, the largest displacement yet in the unlimited Can-Am series.

The engine produced an estimated 725 horsepower, compared to about 710 for the next largest engine, the 495 cubic-inch version with iron sleeves.

"When tenths of a second in a laps times can mean the difference in winning or losing," Knutson says, "this small advantage has meant a lot to the team."

Bills Have to Develop a Defense

By MARVIN R. PIKE

Associated Press Sports Writer
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — With their National Football League opener exactly a month off, the Buffalo Bills face the task of developing a defense that can turn back such foes as the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts.

"The defense just isn't," said one Buffalo fan after watching the Bills collapse in their second preseason game against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Coach Harvey Johnson agreed.

"The defensive line cost us the ball game," he moaned following the Bills' 34-28 loss to the Eagles. "They didn't get to the passer all night."

The Eagles riddled the Bills with their aerial game, completing 22 of 25 tosses for 292 yards and two touchdowns.

Offensively, the Bills appear to have a well-rounded attack. In the backfield, there's the 1970 NFL Rookie-of-the-Year, Quarterback Dennis Shaw; former All-American and Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson, powerful fullback Wayne Patrick, surprising Greg Jones and speedster Max Anderson.

Shaw, backed up by Jim Harris, has two tested receivers in Marlin Briscoe, the leading pass-catcher in the American Conference that season, and Haven Moses. One of those two is being challenged for his job by rookie J.D. Hill of Arizona State, Buffalo's No. 1 draft choice.

Too, the Bills are counting on Southern California's Bob Chandler, another receiver with gifted hands.

A couple of other rookie hopefuls include center Bruce Jarvis of the University of Washington and tight end Jan White of Ohio State.

Running back Jim Braxton of West Virginia will be sidelined about six weeks because of an ankle break suffered in Buffalo's first preseason game against New Orleans.

Defensively, the Bills have second year man Al Cowlings at right end and are looking for a successor to Ron McDole, traded away. Bob Tatek and Jim Dunaway are the old-time tackles, with Waddey Harvey challenging.

The linebackers include Mike Stratton, Edgar Chandler and Paul Guilry with Butch Byrd and Robert James at the cornerback and Pete Richardson and John Pitts at the safeties.

Another Buffalo weakness of the last two seasons, punting, may be overcome by Dave Chapple, who was drafted by San Francisco in 1969 and who never made the team.

He averaged 43.6 yards in seven punts against New Orleans and 43 yards in three

SHOT FROM GUNS

Bob Kuechenberg of the Miami Dolphins and his brother Rudy of Green Bay was a human cannonball at county fairs and rodeos. "I remember we had an uncle who substituted for my father once when my father couldn't make it, and it didn't quite turn out the way it was planned," Bob says. "He didn't clear the Ferris wheel and got cut up pretty badly." That, Bob adds, was when he decided he didn't want to be a human cannonball.

Dock Strike to Continue, Union Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Condemning President Nixon's wage-price freeze as unfair to workers, longshore leader Harry Bridges says the 49-day-old West Coast dock strike will continue "in full force."

However, Bridges told a news conference Wednesday he expects negotiations will resume next week between the West Coast dock union and the Pacific Maritime Association.

The 70-year-old President of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said he has called the ILWU's West Coast Strike Strategy Committee to meet here Monday.

He said the union will insist in resumed bargaining that all issues, including wages, be negotiated.

"If necessary," he declared, "sufficient sums of money to pay wage increases should be placed in escrow to be available at the end of the 90-day freeze period."

In a telegram to Nixon, Bridges said the President's freeze order placed the burden of fighting inflation "on the backs of the working people of the United States."

Kiwanians and their families observed Family Reunion Day on Tuesday evening at Town & Country Restaurant and were entertained by Larry Keel and Hobart Shirley with a musical program.

Kiwanis International and the Freedoms Foundation started what they call Family Reunion Day a few years ago. It is observed throughout our nation wherever Kiwanis International has Clubs. It is a day when families are urged to do things together; to play together; to eat together; to visit together; and to pray together.

This year marks the third Annual Family Reunion Day for the local Kiwanis Club. Each member was urged to bring his entire family to this special meeting. A picnic type meal was provided, followed by introductions of the members of each family group after which the musical program was presented.

Guests other than Kiwanis family members were Mrs. Larry Keel, Mrs. Connie Griffin, and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hewitt.

Suit Filed Against Shoe Firm

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The Ed White Junior Shoe Co. of Paragould filed a $1.3 million suit in U.S. District Court here Wednesday against SCOA Industries, Inc., also known as Shoe Corp. of America.

The suit, in addition to the money sought, wants SCOA enjoined from interfering with White's employees and business operations and from using any confidential information obtained from White while negotiations between the firms was in progress last year.

In the spring of 1970, the suit said White entered into negotiations of a possible sale of its assets to SCOA, but the suit said negotiations were terminated by SCOA Aug. 4, 1970 for unknown reasons.

White charges in the suit that two key employees of White's have left to work for SCOA and that during negotiations for the sale, SCOA attempted to employ some of White's key personnel.

The suit further contended that White was a leader in the manufacture and sale of synthetic boots and shoes for women.

Poor May Be Priced Out in Housing

By KEN HARTNETT

and G.C. THELEN JR.

Associated Press Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal housing officials are facing serious cost and management problems that threaten to price the poor out of the government's mushrooming multibillion-dollar subsidized-apartment program.

The most immediate concern of the Department of Housing and Urban Development is the number of projects running in the red and needing rent increases to meet basic operating expenses. On the horizon is the possibility rich investors may abandon buildings after using up the tax shelters that lured them to the program.

"We are doing low- and moderate-income families no favor by approving projects doomed to management failure almost as soon as they are occupied," Norman V. Watson, assistant HUD secretary for housing management, wrote field officials July 29.

Watson ordered a tightening of procedures because projects had been approved with such operating expenses as taxes, utilities and maintenance underestimated by as much as 10 to 20 per cent.

In jeopardy are the 3,132 apartment projects completed or under construction in the Section 236 program enacted by Congress in 1968 to provide housing for 350,000 low- and moderate-income families.

The government insures the mortgages and may pay all but 1 per cent of the interest. In theory, these subsidies should reduce rents enough so families earning $4,000 to $9,000 a year will pay little more than 25 per cent of their income for apartment rental.

But a federal review of Section 236 projects in five cities found:

—The average tenant pays 34 per cent of his income for rent.
—The program attracts mainly low-income families who can't weather sizable rent increases.

—Many sponsors request rent increases shortly after or just before their projects open.

Rent scales of $112 to $170 encountered in some projects are equivalent to what middle-income families pay for unsubsidized units, housing specialists say.

Financial and physical ruin of the subsidized projects is an immediate, not a long-range, concern, said Hortense Gable, a New York housing consultant.

Her study of federally subsidized units built in New York City within the past three years found most "are already exhibiting mild to severe maintenance problems."

HUD officials forecast a 5-per-cent default rate by next July in the 236 program twice that for unsubsidized housing. A high default rate could drive up costs which are now at $175 million a year. Because the interest subsidies are paid over the 40-year-life of the mortgages, Section 236 projects will cost taxpayers at least $1 billion a year in 1978 and as much as $80 billion over the projects' lifetime.

In addition, billions of dollars will be lost to the Treasury through tax breaks Congress has given investors buying into the housing complexes.

Housing experts cite a number of reasons for the program's troubles.

Inflation has driven up the cost of everything from electric light bulbs to the salaries of security guards. There is a shortage of housing managers trained to operate low-income projects.

Contaminated Eggs Are Consumed

By G. DAVID WALLACE

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A month after discovering a persistent poison was leaking into fish meal destined for chicken, pig and catfish feed, the government has acknowledged an unknown quantity of contaminated eggs has been eaten by consumers.

Food and Drug Administration spokesmen say the level at which the eggs were contaminated by the DDT-like chemical — although illegal — is so low there is no health hazard. Ralph Nader says it is a hazard.

"The FDA judges the current problem with eggs to be one of undesirable food adulteration not associated with any health hazard," said an FDA spokesman Wednesday. Earlier, a Washington egg distributor said he had no idea 5,000 dozen eggs he received were contaminated and the eggs slipped through the agency's enforcement net a week and a half ago.

The FDA said hotels, restaurants and grocery stores already had received the eggs by the time lab tests were completed.

Last Friday, five days after a futile seizure attempt, the FDA's spokesmen were saying they knew of no incident in which contaminated eggs had reached consumers but could offer no assurance this had not happened. Wednesday they went one step further: "Well, we just have to assume some did," said one.

The eggs were tainted with PCBs, or polychlorinated biphenyls, a family of compounds implicated in skin disease, liver damage and birth defects in Japan in 1968 when people spent a month or more eating rice oil laced with PCB's at a level of 200 parts per million.

Gets Scholarship

SUSIE BEAVERT

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. — Miss Susie Beavert, a 1971 graduate of Henderson State College from Murfreesboro, has been awarded a four-year scholarship by the National Institute of Health to pursue a doctorate degree in Medical Sociology at the University of Missouri.

Medical Sociology is a relative new field in medicine, one that is alive and changing and developing rapidly—its exciting and needed, Miss Beavert said. "I want to be a part of it."

Miss Beavert first became interested in the field through a visiting lecturer of the American Sociology Association and through Dr. Hillquit Lynch, HSC chairman of sociology, decided on the field for her career.

Medical Sociology offers many choices for a career. Its being taught in the medical schools to give the med-students a background in the social aspects of disease and health care. This offers the opportunity for a university teaching career, perhaps, with a joint appointment in a medical school and in sociology in teaching or research, which Miss Beavert favors at this time.

It also opens the doors for a career in public health service or working with foundations in the social aspects of disease and health care.

The most important fact to Miss Beavert is that Medical Sociology deals with and benefits people. She reports to the University of Missouri August 25 for a brief orientation session on the program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parla Beavert of Murfreesboro, she received the B. A. degree with Distinction from Henderson State College with majors in sociology, psychology, and Spanish. An outstanding student with a cumulative grade point average of 3.99 on a 4.0 scale, she was listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges

British Army in Ireland Criticized

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Criticism of the British army's conduct in Northern Ireland mounted today following the fatal shooting of a deaf mute and the arrest of two members of the provincial parliament.

The army said soldiers shot and killed Eamon McDevitt, 28, at Strabane Wednesday night because he refused to give up a pistol. They said they discovered later that he was a deaf mute. Some witnesses said McDevitt had no pistol.

Following the shooting, crowds went on a rampage through the town 15 miles south of Londonderry, burning cars, a house and a store and stoning the troops. Three persons were arrested.

Everyone has heard of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. What is not generally known is that there were a couple of square tables in the corner where the knights used to play bridge. It was the type of game where it was important to be nice to your partner. Otherwise a partnership argument was likely to wind up in combat with swords and other lethal weapons.

Today's hand finds the peerless Lancelot sitting North with the villainous Mordred, South.

Mordred played dummy's queen of diamonds at trick one. East put on the king and Mordred the ace. Eventually East got in twice with the 10 and eight of diamonds. He led a heart the first time. There was no way for Mordred to avoid the loss of a heart as well as the two diamonds and the ace of clubs.

"If I had all of Merlin's magic, I could not have made the hand," growled Mordred.

"Forsooth," said Lancelot, "Anyone but you or Dinadan (the worst player of the round table) would have won the battle. Let the jack of diamonds hold that first trick and you would never have to lose a heart."

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Is it dangerous to still menstruate at the age of 57? This is my case!

After two years of irregular menstruations, I stopped last year. I thought it was the end of it but I menstruated again this year. Volume and duration were normal, except that I felt somewhat swollen for two weeks before. I feel fine, have a pap smear test done every year. Do you think it would be safer to consider a hysterectomy in order to try to prevent cancer? My mother died from cancer of the uterus at the age of 60.

Regardless of how recently anyone has had a pap smear, unusual bleeding should be cause for a return visit to the doctor at once.

I am not enthusiastic about hysterectomies to prevent cancer. If there is something wrong with the uterus, then it should be considered. Otherwise a regular checkup is a better solution.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Two of my patients have requested me to obtain information from the National Institutes of Health relative to restoration of sense of taste. Could you give me the specific mailing address?

There have been a large number of requests for this information, which I guess speaks for itself about the number of people who need to spruce up their taster. The original information indicating doctors could obtain a kit from the National Institutes of Health to test patients was in the Medical World News report of Dr. Henkin's work. It is this method which has successfully restored taste for a number of patients. It is a fairly new development. I would suggest that any doctor wanting a kit should write to Dr. Robert I. Henkin, Chief, Neuroendocrinology Section, National Heart and Lung Institute, National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Maryland. I hope this information will end up leaving a better taste in a lot of peoples' mouths.

NEW YORK (AP) — When the National League baseball season began 12 players, most of them veterans, were on the disabled list.

The defending champion Cincinnati Reds were hardest hit by injuries with three men out — shortstop Dave Concepcion, right fielder Bobby Tolan and first baseman Lee May.

Other disabled men at the start were pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm and left fielder Rico Carty of the Atlanta Braves; first baseman Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs; pitcher Ron Cook of the Houston Astros; pitcher Jim Britton and outfielder Jim Gosger of the Montreal Expos; pitcher Lowell Palmer of the Philadelphia Phillies; pitcher John Lamb of the Pittsburgh Pirates and third baseman Jim Hart of the San Francisco Giants.

The term bootlegging, for illegal sale of liquor, originated on the Indian reservations in the West, according to The World Almanac. It is this method which has successfully restored taste for a number of patients. It is a fairly new development. I would suggest that any doctor wanting a kit should write to Dr. Robert I. Henkin, Chief, Neuroendocrinology Section, National Heart and Lung Institute, National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Maryland. I hope this information will end up leaving a better taste in a lot of peoples' mouths.

ALCOHOL THE REAL KILLER?

Dear Helen:
I'm not for illegal drug-copping out and turning on is like slashing one's wrists. I probably wouldn't smoke grass if it were legalized. But if others want to kill themselves, that's their choice; we cannot continue to enforce morality with laws. Thus, your "wait and see if it's dangerous or not" is simply brushing aside the moment of decision with an excuse-as are those presidential commissions to study gun control, poverty, etc.

ANY drug-in fact almost ANYTHING-is dangerous if abused. The real killer is not-marijuana, but alcohol. While police hunt down college pot-users and treat them as criminals, this year alone, some 60,000 Americans will be slaughtered on the highway and 50 percent of all fatal accidents are caused by drunk drivers. The estimated number of alcoholics compared to the number of other drug addicts is about 100 to one.

If anyone doubts alcohol's affect upon society, just think of all the bars, night clubs, liquor stores, etc. that are in one small crummy town. Think of the job absenteeism caused by drinking; the four-martini lunches that take all afternoon, the marriage breakups, family problems.

So why the big hassle about legalizing pot? Stephen

P.S. You have to discount a lot of what anti-pot psychiatrists say. They see only "sick people, therefore tend to judge all users by their patients (who abuse, and are psychotic anyway). If marijuana were legalized, the majority of people would smoke it sensibly.

Dear Stephen:
....As they smoke cigarettes, no doubt?

What many of you altruistic "can't legislate morals" people don't realize is that if pot were legalized it would be big business. While you're shouting for the "right to grow grass in your back yard," one company has already copyrighted the name "Acapulco Gold" to have a jump on competitors.

Before you kids back a new million dollar industry aimed at making this country "go to pot," you'd better be sure it won't compound our troubles (as abuse of alcohol already has). —H.

Dear Helen:
My boy friend told me that nine-tenths of girls don't stay virgins after they've reached high school. Is he right? —TRUDY

That's an ambiguous statement: How long after?

If your b.f. implies that nine-tenths of girls become non-virgins while still of high school age, he's wrong-by perhaps 65 percent.

And if he is using unproved statistics as persuasion, tell him it's still "ladies' choice," and you'll make up your own mind, thank you. —H.

Dear Helen:

I'm in junior high, and I've taken everything from "UPS" to hash. It started when the carnival was in town and my boy friend took me every night. A friend of his gave him some pills and after I came home I was trippin' for a whole week. That was fun, so we got on pot and the hash. It's been six months and I'm still going with this guy. I like him a lot, but I'm afraid we'll get caught, and I can't make him stop drugs. When he has them, I can't stop myself from taking them either. You feel dumb and out of it when you're not high. If anyone can help, please do! —A.F.

Dear A.:
Help yourself by getting out of this crowd FAST! And if you waver, take a good long look at the kids on drugs. Do you like what you see? —H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble; let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Nixon Cites Religious Value Needs

DENVER (AP) — President Nixon says that religious values are needed in the world today as never before.

"At no time in the history of mankind have the spiritual values and moral principles of your ministry been so important and needed as today," he said in a letter Wednesday night to the World Methodist Conference.

About 5,000 churchmen from 87 countries were present for the opening of the nine-day gathering, representing 55 Methodist bodies totaling about 50 million adherents.

The Rev. Dr. Russell Hindmarsh of the University of Newcastle in England said there is a pervading mood that humanity is approaching a time "as terrifying and disruptive as the fall of the Roman Empire."

In a keynote address, he said that both scientific technology and the reaction against it in all-out humanism seem to challenge Christian beliefs.

But he said that the opposite is actually the case.

He said the cohesive regularity of the natural universe, which is the basis of scientific work, is "precisely the kind of world" described in the Genesis account of creation, with men given responsibility for it.

"Nothing in our faith erodes in the slightest degree the scientific view of the world, nor does it detract from the freedom and autonomy of human beings," he said.

To the widespread contemporary question, "How does God operate in the world?" Dr. Hindmarsh said the Bible makes clear "God does not work by magic" but through the structure of life into which he built his own nature.

His agenda for the world also was "written in his direct encounter with men in Jesus" and the task of men is to bring the world to its built-in divine potentiality by following him, the British theologian said.

The start of the conference came after two days of meetings by its sponsoring legislative body, the Methodist World Council.

A constitutional change was approved giving majority representation to younger churches in Asia, Africa and South America.

The council's president, attorney Charles C. Parlin of New York, noted that the change means that for the first time British and American "mother churches" will be in a minority position.

He said the long-time pattern of mainly white Western churches sending missionaries to the poorer developing countries is a "closing chapter of history." He foresaw a reverse movement of Asian-African missionaries to the United States.

Youths and women also gained a bigger voice in the council with approval of a resolution offered by Dr. Patrocinio Ocampo, a Philippine woman of Manila.

It asked that members of the council's interim governing body, its executive committee, be 20 per cent laymen, 20 per cent laywomen and 10 per cent youths.

Another action put through at the urging of a student leader, the Rev. R. Michael Casto of Columbus, Ohio, provides that four youths be added to the executive committee besides denominational quotas.

Parlin, in his presidential address, called for wider acceptance of new and innovative movements in Christianity, particularly among youths.

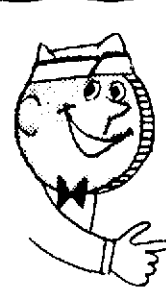

He cited the hippie-type "Jesus people," the religious themes in rock music and various other unconventional Christian movements, often outside established churches.

"To date, there has been too much attempt to read out of the church those who differ," he said.

Mrs. Nixon Finds Backing for Husband

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — First Lady Pat Nixon says she has found great enthusiasm for President Nixon this week on her cross-country trip and that it bodes well for the 1972 campaign.

Nixon has been "a marvelous president" and anyone who "sat down and outlined the things he has done would work just as hard for him in '72 as I did in '68," she added.

Mrs. Nixon talked with reporters as she flew to California on Tuesday for the last part of her trip—the formal transfer of 370 acres of federal land at Border Field today for public recreation use. Her conversation indicated that her husband would run again, something he has not yet announced.

Handshaking and chatting with people in Virginia, Michigan, Minnesota and Oregon as she turned over some 4,000 acres of federal lands, Mrs. Nixon said she got a "heart-warming" reaction.

She said she saw a lot of the country, met people in all walks of life and had a chance to find out what they're thinking.

"Are you getting any feelings about 1972?" she was asked.

"I haven't done it for that purpose," Mrs. Nixon said of her three-day trip. "But I think the enthusiasm's great ... People are telling me personally as we go along."

She quoted such comments as: "I'm a Democrat, but I'm for you." "I like what your husband is doing." "Tell him he's doing a good job."

Sitting in her private cabin aboard a presidential jet plane flying from Oregon, Mrs. Nixon was relaxed and responded with ease to questions about politics, campaigning and Nixon's upcoming trip to mainland China.

She said she really doesn't know whether she'll be going to China because "everything in that field takes a lot of negotiating."

Mrs. Nixon said that she doesn't know much about the new national Women's Political Caucus, an effort led by Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and writers Gloria Steinem and Betty Friedan to make women more effective in politics.

"I really haven't read about that," said the President's wife. "It sounds pretty wild, just to be frank. I saw a scattering of it and it just wasn't anything I really wanted to read."

In the first two days of promoting recreation lands, Mrs. Nixon has watched sports demonstrations from polo to sky-diving. She rode in a covered wagon and even put a golden retriever dog through its paces.

Learning South of the Border

By CLAIRE CRAWFORD

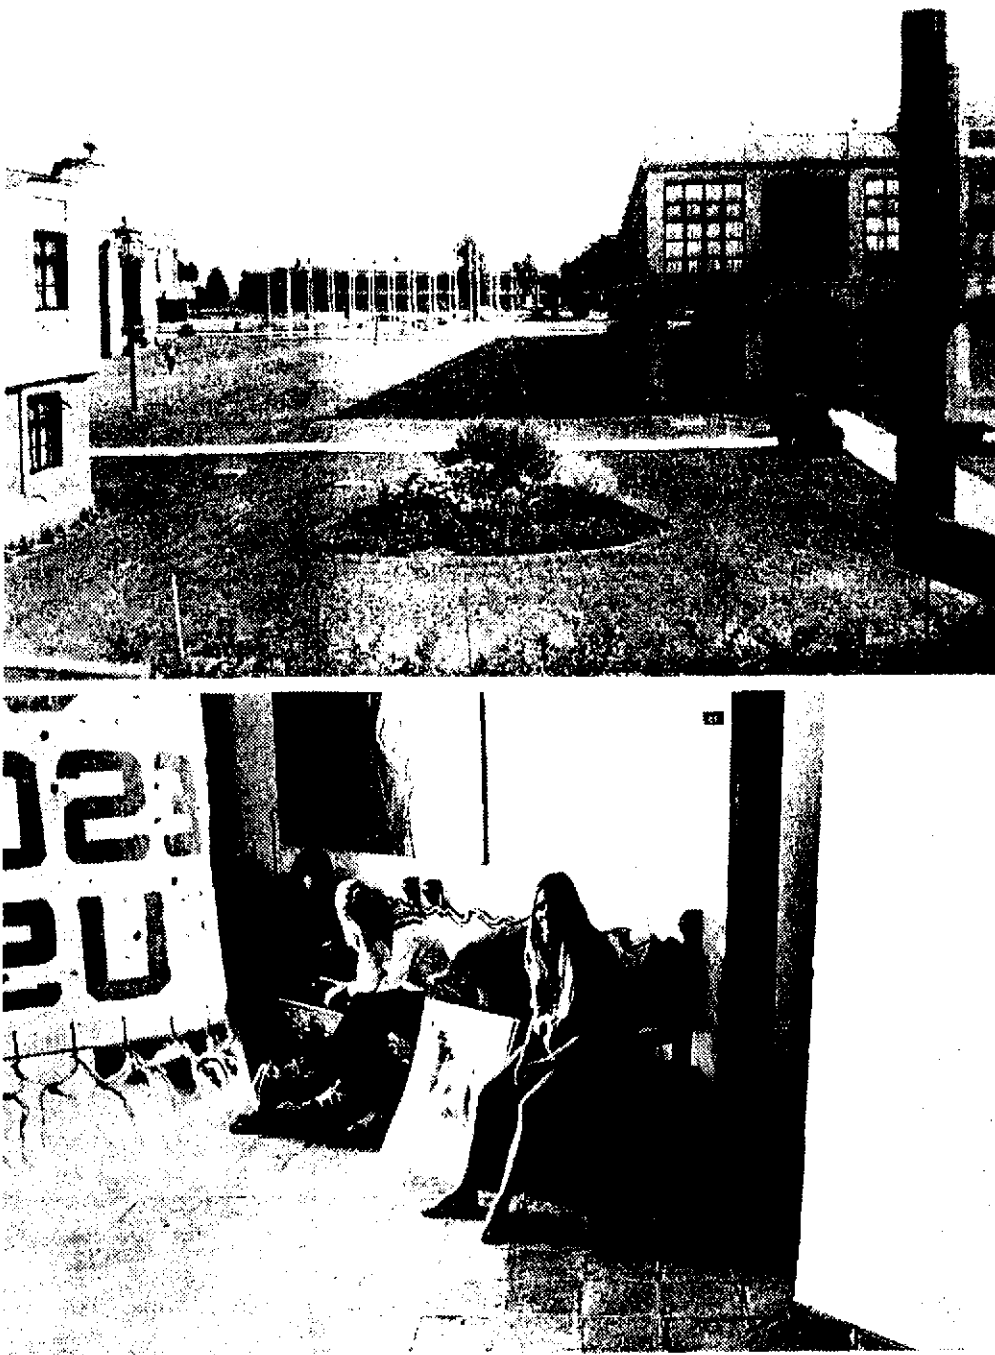

PUEBLA, Mexico—(NEA) —Just 20 minutes outside Puebla, fourth largest city in Mexico, hard by the dusty village of Chouluva, stands the beautiful new campus of the University of the Americas. On June 1 of this year, the university graduated its first class of 136.

The school isn't all that new, however. It was founded in 1940 as Mexico City College, largely to meet the needs of Mexico City's Anglo-American colony. The school grew quietly until 1967 when it received a huge grant—some say $5 million—from the Mary Street Jenkins Foundation. The grant stipulated that the university move to Puebla.

Mr. Jenkins—nobody seems to know his first name—was a mysterious and colorful immigrant from the United States who lived in Puebla and made his fortune in Mexico. When he died he left $100 million to be used for education in Mexico.

Although the University of the Americas is an American school with a foundation chartered in the United States, it is one of the few institutions recognized by two governments. It has full affiliation with Mexican government schools, is a fully accredited member of the Southern Assn. of Colleges and Schools in the United States and is an extraterritorial member of the Assn. of Texas Colleges.

The school offers several advantages to American students, says Dr. Joffre La Fontaine, assistant to the president for external affairs. First of all, the cost is moderate, about $1,600 covers tuition, room and board and books.

A close relationship between the student and faculty exists. The student body is made up of some 1,500 students with an average class size of 15. The university plans to stay small by limiting its expansion to 3,000 in the next five years.

The university also offers an unusual opportunity to combine the practical with the theoretical by concentration in one of the specialties such as anthropology, international relations or economics. The school week is organized so lectures run Monday through Thursday, leaving weekends free for field trips. "International education is a pathway to intercultural understanding," Dr. La Fontaine says.

Promoting intercultural understanding is the stated purpose of the university and runs strongly through its organization and activities. The faculty itself encompasses 26 nationalities, although the majority are Mexican or North American. Last year the student body had 42 nationalities represented, although roughly 85 per cent was Mexican and North American.

The university offers a junior year in Mexico program in cooperation with universities and colleges in the United States. Some 200 students a year participate in the program.

The American Assn. of State Colleges and Universities has established a Center for International Studies which offers a joint Masters of Arts in International Teaching. "It's an excellent chance to get a more objective view of our American culture as well as to really learn another language," says Dr. Eugene Wilkins who headed the center last year.

There is practically no drug abuse on the campus, partly because the Mexican government has a stringent attitude toward drugs. Drug use means expulsion not only from the school but from the country.

To the harried, anxious North American parent, the University of the Americas in the high altitudes of Mexico might just be the answer to beating the high cost of higher education without worrying about the kids turning on with a dangerous high.

Seminar for Minority Businessmen

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A program designed to increase the participation of the minority businessman in government procurement will begin Friday with a seminar conducted by representatives of four government agencies.

"The seminar will be for any minority businessman who has a product or service that might be purchased by the federal government," said Tom Ratliff, assistant director of business affairs for the Fort Worth, Tex., office of the General Services Administration.

Ratliff said his office would participate in the program along with the Department of Defense, Small Business Administration and the Department of Commerce.

Ratliff said representatives of the four agencies would be available to "counsel the minority businessman on how to go about obtaining a contract." He also said representatives of the SBA would be available to take applications for SBA loans.

Ratliff said the SBA loans would be available to small businessmen who were not financially able to compete for government contracts.

"We also want to talk individually with each businessman, review his business and try to satisfy him that he has a chance to succeed," Ratliff said.

He said that after the seminar the minority-group businessmen would be able to deal directly with individual government agencies.

Smothered Swiss Steak

Swiss steak from economical beef round pleases beef eaters.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Steak in almost any form gladdens the heart of most American males. A special treat for the Labor Day scene needn't break the family food budget. Take a lean, flavorful round steak, smother it with mustard, fresh tomatoes and onion and braise until tender on top of the range. This is an economy cut from the hind leg of beef that makes a perfect companion for boiled potatoes and a green vegetable.

SUCCULENT SWISS STEAK

2 pounds beef round steak (1-inch thick)
Salt
Pepper
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

3 large tomatoes
1 large onion

Cut beef into 6 portions. Trim off excess fat from beef and brown fat in skillet. Discard fat and brown beef in drippings. Sprinkle beef with salt and pepper. Spread mustard on beef. Slice and arrange tomatoes and onion over beef. Cover. Simmer about 1 to 1½ hours until tender, adding a little water if needed. Makes 6 servings.
